IT'S A QUESTION OF PSYCHOLOGY

The high standard of tonsorial service which prevails in the SERVICE BARBER SHOPS, LIMITED, is the result of careful study.

In fact, we have endeavored to eliminate everything that tends to jar on the man in the chair. To cite one instance, you are not solicited for everything in the tonsorial lexicon. Our barbers are the last word in courtesy.

Again, as a point of hygienic interest, observe that your barber carefully disinfects his hands before attending to you. Notice also, that your brush and comb are taken from a sealed package. It is these little hygienic amenities that make our service distinctive.

Harry a Real Lover of Im-

HIMSELF A POET

Daily Acquires Unpublished
 Lyric by Assistant Janitor

"Into what dangers would you lead me,
 Cassius,
 That you would have me seek into myself
 For that which is not in me?"

This was the startling answer vouchsafed to a Daily reporter yesterday afternoon by Harry, the assistant janitor of the Arts Building, when pressed to allow one of the poems which tradition has credited him with having written to appear in the columns of the Daily.

Harry is a familiar figure about the venerable halls of the Arts Building, and always have an apt Shakespearean quotation for all who care to stop and talk to him for a while, as, armed with an ubiquitous dust pan and brush, he wages impossible warfare against the lemon of dirt. An ardent admirer of the works of the "Swan of Avon," Harry is, in the same ratio, extremely modest as to the merits of his own production.

"Its doggerel," he said, describing an illustrative arc with his dustpan for the sake of emphasis.

The reporter raised a protesting hand.
 "Doggerel," he repeated. "Ah, and that reminds me," he continued, turning to William, the janitor, "Your dog has come back; I found him lying in the ash bin this morning."

Letting this interesting psychological instance of the association of ideas pass, the reporter pressed his request to be allowed to see some of Harry's lyrics.

"Well, you see, I have them all written here," said the bard, tapping a Shakespearean brow, "and it takes me a few moments to recall them exactly."

"Don't you remember the one you wrote when the ceiling of the Faculty Room fell in?" interposed William in the role of a Boswell, prompting his Johnson.

"Ah, yes, it goes like this:—tum-titum-tum; and presently, the mantle of the poet descending upon him, he surrendered himself to the Muses and the music of his metre, and dictated the following verses:

S.O.S. CALL

On Sunday morning, August the sixth,
 Whilst preparing the mid-day meal,
 The Janitor's wife heard a crash
 Which made the Arts Building reel.

Rushing to her husband William,
 She exclaimed, "Babylon is fallen at last."

From my dreams and observations
 I could see its doom coming fast.

EXPLOSION SHAKES UNION TO CELLAR

Students and Residents Are Terror-stricken

The denizens of the Union and those students who happened to be on the lower floors of the building last night around nine o'clock were startled by a tremendous explosion which shook the structure to its very foundations.
 No sooner had the vibration subsided than a second report of slighter intensity than the first was heard.

Members of the Daily staff who,
 from their offices in the lower regions of the building, heard both of the de-tonations and saw the electric lights flicker, lost no time in making their way to the main lobby to trace the source of the trouble. Here they met excited employees and students running in all directions, pale and wondering. Some looked into the street for traces of the explosion; others insisted that a boiler had exploded in the cellar—this the Daily scribes were able to deny. Various other theories were advanced, but for several minutes no authentic details had been ascertained.

It was finally discovered that the source of the explosion was in the ball room. There it was learned that a rehearsal of the Science act for Theatre Night was in progress and that the noise was merely one of the features of the act.

It is rumoured that a prominent official of the Union was found on the fire escape after the incident.

SIR G. FOSTER WILL ADDRESS LAST MEETING

To Discuss "The European Situation"

AT 5 O'CLOCK

Final Meeting of the Canadian Club

This afternoon at five o'clock, in the Royal Victoria College, the student body will be privileged to hear a noted speaker in the person of the Right Hon. Sir
 George E. Foster, G.C.M.G., K.C., M.G., P.C., D.C.L., LL.D., M.A.,
 who will deliver an address on "The European Situation."

Sir George is conceded to be, by political friend and foe alike, one of the foremost statesmen of the Empire, and his profound knowledge of international politics, coupled with his scholarly eloquence, ensures that it will be well worth the time of the undergraduates to hear him.

In addition to other important diplomatic missions during his long political career, Sir George was a representative of Great Britain at the Paris Economic Conference in 1914, and represented Canada at the Peace Conference. He is a Conservative in politics, and from 1911 to 1921 was Minister of Trade and Commerce in the Borden and Meighen Governments. At the present time he is a distinguished member of the Senate.

The meeting will mark the termination of what was probably the most successful season in the history of the McGill Canadian Club, and too much credit cannot be accorded to the executive for bridging the gap between the academic atmosphere of the University and the world of practicability by means of men prominent in public life, and possessed of information which every undergraduate should as a Canadian, feel a vital interest in obtaining.

AT THE TABLE.

Young son—Mother, are caterpillars
 good to eat?

Mother—Ugh-h, No, why do you ask such a silly question?

Young son—Well, I saw one on the lettuce you just ate.

Sappy—Did you ever see a dog that would eat dirt?
 Snappy—No, has some dog been bitting you?

STUDENTS' SOCIETY MEETING

The semi-annual meeting of the Students' Society will be held in the McGill Union Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock.
 Lectures in all faculties will be suspended from eleven to one o'clock.

GLEE CLUB'S CONCERT WAS ACHIEVEMENT

Rollicking Sea Songs Please
 Appreciative Audience

DEFINITE PROGRESS

Miss James and Miss Izard
 Ably Assisted

Before an appreciative and enthusiastic audience which included many members of the faculty, the McGill
 Glee Club under the leadership of Mr.
 Harold Eustace Key and assisted by Miss Frances James and Miss Mary Izard, gave a concert last night which,
 in its irresistible popular appeal, was a decided triumph.

Since its last appearance, the club showed the results of further faithful training under the talented hand of its conscientious conductor, Mr. Harold Eustace Key. The subtle details of shading and expression, the balanced phrasing, the correct intonations, and the quality of the voices, all evidenced a definite advance; while the clear enunciation and the full deep tone evoked unstinted admiration from the critical auditors. But what was most pleasing in the concert was the thorough genuineness of the members in their desire to please and entertain.
 This quality completely overshadowed the few occasional faults which are always prevalent even in the finest of recitals but which only tend to accentuate the progress made by any singing body.

The assistance given by Miss Frances James, soprano, and Miss Mary Izard, violinist, added the polishing touches to the exceptionally entertaining concert. Miss Izard's faultless technique was a delight while her howling was without slurs, martellato, spiccato, with the result that her solos were things of exquisite beauty. Miss James' charming soprano solos were sung with a voice which was convincingly pure with a wide range of sympathetic expression. Her numbers were encored several times and she, as did Miss Izard, replied good-humoredly to the persistent demands.

The programme was one of delightful contrasts ranging from the thistle-down softness of the strains of "Spread Your Wings" to the rollicking rhythm of "Drake's Drum", with its smacking of salty spray, sung with a command of wild abandon and correct restraint. There were other

PRINCIPAL WILL ATTEND BANQUE.

Distinguished Guests at Arts
 Dinner Tonight

The most important function in Arts Undergraduate circles—the annual banquet—will be held tonight at the Union. In past years the banquet has invariably been well attended and has served as the means of bringing together the upper and lower classmen in a happy gathering where good-fellowship reigns supreme and erudite distinctions are cast aside.

Both Sir Arthur Currie and Dean Laing have signified their intention of being present, and the undergraduates will have the added honor of being hosts to Professor R. K. Hicks of Queen's University, and representatives from the University of Montreal and Toronto University.

The banquet affords an admirable opportunity for students to converse on more intimate terms with members of the faculty, and with that end in view, the professors will seat themselves among the students at different points throughout the room. The fact that the banquet is being held in the Union dissipates any doubts as to the quality of the food that will be served, and in addition, Glenn Adney's orchestra, which has been engaged for the occasion, will impart an added zest to the proceedings. The second "oast of the evening will be "to our fallen comrades" and will be a silent
 one. The toast list is as follows:

The Friends You Make

WHEN the time comes for you to take your leave of your Alma Mater and embark upon the threshold of a business career with the world before you—you will take with you the friendship of a number of your classmates—friendships that may prove of immeasurable value to you in your business life.

There is one friendship more than any other, perhaps, which may count for much of your success in later life and which you should endeavor to cultivate during your early years—and that is the friendship of a progressive Bank. The relationship between you and your Bank may be of little concern to you now, but it is more than probable it will mean much to you when you become a factor in the business life of the country.

A steadily growing account with a steadily growing Bank is bound to prove a valuable asset to the young men whose ultimate goal in life is—Success.

WASTE NOT, FAIL NOT

Attempts have been made, not infrequently, to criticize college activities on the assumption that participation in them is apt to be at the expense of time that should be spent on studies. Activities, it is claimed, but serve as an excuse for laxity in scholarship. Probably the most conclusive reply to these statements is an observation of their applicability to conditions prevalent at the universities. Such inquiry, we are sure, would elicit the information that it is not the idle man, the man with little to do and a great deal of time in which to do it, that attains the most satisfactory standing in his lecture work. Rather we are confident that investigation would demonstrate that it is the man who is busy, who has learned the necessity of crowding much into a limited period, who achieves the most gratifying results in his academic pursuits—particularly gratifying, perhaps, in their consistency, in their evidence of the fact that they are the outcome of application to the matter in hand, for a man who is occupied about the campus may indeed be so prevented from attaining a scholarship ranking, but the very circumstances that he is proficient in his extra-curriculum duties will lead him to be correspondingly exact in the conduct of his obligations towards his studies.

In brief, it is the idler, who wastes his minutes in indecision as to the mode of relaxation best suited to his mood at the moment and his hours in accommodating that whim, who is most prone to be delinquent in his duties. The present to him must be always pleasant, although darkened, perchance, by the prospect of the ever-shifting day in the future that is to record his return to work. Time to him is but a means of passing time. To the other man, to the so-called "busy" man, time is but a way to accomplishment, and the fact that he has learned its value because of his having to utilize its minutes prompts him to be mindful of its use, and to make the most of "each fleeting hour". The manner in which he succeeds in this latter endeavour forms the basis of the justification of college activity, and the manner in which the antithesis of his type squanders his hours is but a reminder of what the other man avoided by his preoccupation in work.

Idlers are notorious mischief makers—away with them. Let us replace the idler with the worker, and the idler's propensity for mischief with the worker's effort for attainment, and let us retain and encourage college activities—sports and politics—in their widest sense, as agents to further this last mentioned, the product of honest toil.

THE GLEE CLUB

The concert of the Glee Club given last evening was a success. The music offered those who attended was of the highest order and of a type that merits wider encouragement about the University. The auditorium of the Royal Victoria College was comfortably filled, but it is to be feared that the audience was composed for the main part of outsiders rather than of McGill students. It is unfortunate that it was so; it is unfortunate that the value of the Glee Club should receive more recognition away from the University than that accorded it here. The Glee Club's full purpose can only be filled when the undergraduates respond to the appeal for support thrown out to them.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The letter to be found in the Correspondence Column with reference to the difficulties serves, by the questions asked therein, to remind us of the existence of the Graduates' Employment Bureau for the very purposes mentioned in the communication whose services are at the command of the student upon application to the office of the Secretary of the Graduates' Society to be found in the east wing of the Arts Building.

The last meeting of the Canadian Club for the current session will be held this afternoon. Previous gatherings of a like nature have proved that no exhortations in this column are required to pack the hall, and the presence of such a man as the Right Hon. Sir George Foster will be an added incentive for attendance.

CORRESPONDENCE

The Daily is not responsible for the sentiments of letters published in the correspondence columns. Signed communications from graduates undergraduates and members of the faculties will be placed in print if they are not of too great length.

Correspondents are requested to observe the unwritten law of the newspaper office—that they write upon ONE SIDE of the paper ONLY.

Editor,

McGill Daily:
 Dear Sir:—Within about two months another session of McGill will be completed. Already students are considering what they are going to do during the vacations. There are some whose problem is to know where and how they are going to spend the holidays. There are others whose problem is more difficult to solve; their question is, how and where are they to get sufficient money to take through another year of college. It is concerning these that I wish to speak.

How many there are in McGill who must depend either entirely or partially upon their own earnings to carry them through college I do not know. But in the American Universities it is estimated that about 50 percent are so dependent. In McGill the figure must necessarily be lower. But even so, how many actually get a position?

At its best it is a very difficult and trying time for the student to get a job. They are handicapped everywhere by "pull." To get a job requires "pull," and that the poor chap has not. Another difficulty that he must face is that he does not know where to look, he knows not who requires his services, in general he feels the lack of a "clearing" house, an employment bureau.

With what results? He must waste much time in hunting for a job; sometimes half the holiday passes before he gets one. Even then it is possible that the salary is very low. Do you realize what this means to the poor student? This is irritating enough, but it is further aggravated when he sees better-off students, and such as could get along without working occupying good positions and commanding high salaries. How does he get it? By "pull" and influence, whereas the poor fellow must struggle along under difficulties.

Then does he feel the need of an University Employment Bureau. Why can-lately, and in order to have a clear understanding between the Executive and the members everybody must be present.

All gymnasium clothing must be removed from Molson Hall at the end of the Session. The University cannot be responsible for clothing left after the end of May.

S. C. A. BOARD MEETING.

A meeting of the new Board of the S. C. A. will be held in Strathcona Hall on Wednesday evening, March 21. Supper will be served at 6 o'clock. It is very important that every member of the Board should be present at this preliminary meeting.

ATTENTION, MACCABAEANS.

All students, especially members of the Maccabaeon Circle, are cordially invited to attend a students' evening in the Community Hall of the Shaar Hashomayim Synagogue, Westmount, on Monday, March 26th. There will be a debate between the Shaar Hashomayim Young People's Society, represented by Messrs. Otto Klineberg and M. Garber, and the Bnai Jacob Young People's Society, represented by Messrs. Max Bernfeld and Philip Meyerovitch.

not McGill have one. The University is admirably situated for such a purpose. It is located in the greatest city of Canada, and one of the greatest of America. Montreal is the financial, commercial, industrial and transportation centre of Canada. Surely in such a business atmosphere, it is possible for every student, who desires it, to get a position? Surely there must be a demand for him? What is needed is only a "clearing" house, a place where employer can meet employee. This a University Placement Bureau could do. This would also give the poor chap his "pull."

"Lava," wrote the Freshman, "is what you use to shave with"

AND perhaps the Freshman was not so far wrong at that. He may have been thinking of lather that rolled down his cheeks, dried on his face, and erupted his feelings in the process.

Today, there is something better—Williams' differs from any shaving lather you ever used. For Williams' Shaving Cream contains a certain ingredient that is distinctly beneficial to the skin. And Williams' is easier to shave with. It softens whisker resistance with a speed that takes all the tedium out of the shaving process. Every Student Should be There

GRADUATES CONCERNED OVER RUGBY

Another Letter Received by the "Daily"

PERTINENT ADVICE

"Billy" Nicholson, One-Time Prominent Student, Writes

Added evidence that the graduates of "Old McGill" are determined that their Alma Mater will henceforth be stronger contenders for the rugby championships, and recover their former fame on the gridiron, is afforded by the following letter received from "Billy" Nicholson, following closely, as it does, upon the recent letter received from "Jack" Lewis:

The Editor, McGill Daily.

Dear Sir.—The matter of the lack of success experienced by McGill football teams in the past few years has been a matter of concern to many graduates, both in the city and throughout the country. The result of this dissatisfaction with existing affairs was a dinner attended by graduates from the city, Ottawa and outlying towns. At this dinner the question was thoroughly discussed in all its details. The upshot of this dinner was that the support of the graduates present at the dinner was pledged to the team. The graduates present were those most closely associated with the workings of the Graduate Society and they stated that the matter would be brought forcibly before the Graduate Society, which Society they were sure would take such steps as might be proper and necessary to ensure proper support and backing to the sport which more than any other keeps McGill most prominently before the public.

It was also decided that a committee appointed at the meeting should interview the principal in order to enlist for football the support of the Faculty. This committee was very graciously received by the Principal, who, on behalf of the Faculty, stated that, should the students do their share, he could pledge both his own support and that of the Faculty.

It is hoped that next year various plans will be in force which will enable the student participating in football, both to devote to football the requisite time for that diversion and to maintain his studies.

It will thus be seen that the football men, and the team chosen from them to carry the standard of old McGill on the field, will have the cordial and willing support of both graduates and faculty.

There is another essential, without which the support of both graduates and faculty would be absolutely unavailing. That essential is the support of the undergraduate body.

To particularize, by the support of the undergraduate body, I mean, the active participation of as many as possible, in the practices of the football squad, the attendance of those who have no talent for football at the practices and games, the formation of a strong rooters club, and the insistence by the student body that the men who go on the field to represent them be in perfect physical condition. This last item involves a moral support which should not be lacking. The student body should realize that strict training rules must be observed by the players in the game of football, as at present played. Temptations should not be put in the way of the players to break training and on no account should any student condone the breaking of training by any player. The players should be made to realize by the student body that it is an honour and a privilege to play for Old McGill and that these men are fighting not for their own glory or profit but for that Principal, that faculty, that graduate body, that undergraduate body and that spirit that has set McGill in the forefront of the universities of the world. That is the spirit that you, students, should endeavour to inculcate in your representation on the gridiron. That is the idea with which each player on every McGill team should be imbued when he steps on the field and I say that it is the bounden duty of every student at McGill, freshman or senior, male or female, engineer or medic, to insist and to see to it that those who have the privilege of wearing the colours of the university should be in a physical condition to fight, fight, fight to the victorious or to the bitter end. If the team has been impressed with this feeling I am sure that we need never be ashamed of any team chosen for intercollegiate struggle.

There remains the vital necessity and that is the team and the spirit which that team should have.

McGill has amongst its student body a great potential team.

In Shaughnessy, McGill has the best known and most highly thought of football coach throughout the length and breadth of the land. Shaughnessy has developed championship teams out of the material he has found at McGill and he will most certainly do so again.

Get that material out and put Shaughnessy and his assistant graduates to work on it and McGill will be a rival to be feared and respected by the other teams in the union.

There is one more thing I would urge on the members of the team and that is that they take full advantage of the opportunities to be offered them for maintaining their studies and in keeping abreast of their classmates in their college work. Too often has the lack of energy at their studies by a couple of men cast undeserved reproach on the football team as a whole. It should be the duty of their coaches and their team mates to see that any laggards are shown that they must consider others, even if they do not care for their own scholastic standing.

Please accept my thanks for the space I have thus used (I was almost going to say "wasted" but hope that this long-winded epistle may be of some avail) and be assured, Mr. Editor, that I am only one of the great body of graduates who feel the same way about this matter and wish for the success of "Old McGill."

I am, yours faithfully,
BILLY NICHOLSON.

THE TRACK CLUB HAS LAST MEETING

Université de Montréal to Enter This Line of Sport

The Track Club held its final meeting yesterday afternoon in the Music Room of the Union. "Dave" Johnson opened the gathering with the announcement that under the new constitution of the Athletic Association all unnecessary offices of the club will be eliminated, leaving the offices of honorary president and honorary secretary with such additions next year as will be a manager and assistants.

To replace the officers this year there will be a manager and assistants. An election was then held to determine the most suitable men for these offices, and resulted in the choice of Henry as manager and Grose as his assistant.

Also, it has been proposed to substitute the javelin for the hammer throw in all the future intercollegiate track meets. In this respect, a reply has not yet been received from Toronto. A suggestion was also made to hold relay races between periods in the coming matches so as to stimulate interest in this form of track.

Also, the Université de Montréal will be approached as to participating in a small meet next season for the purpose of supply competition for both teams in the city as well as to promote friendly feeling between the two in the sporting world.

Dr. R. E. Powell was then elected honorary president by acclamation, after which the meeting adjourned.

ALTERATIONS IN FOOTBALL RULE

Americans Abolish the Outside Kick

The football rules committee has recently instituted several changes in the rules for the year 1923. They are of such a nature, however, that, from the point of view of the spectator will not affect the game to any appreciable degree. The most important change was the elimination of the outside kick except on the kick-off, and the free try at goal. The rule regarding clipping was changed so that the offending player may either agree to a 15-yard penalty on the spot where the play started or may place the ball where the clipping occurred.

The forward pass was defined as a ball passed, thrown or handed to another player from a distance of five yards behind the line of scrimmage.

In the future time will be taken out for the try for point. It was also agreed that one or more players raising their hand may make a fair catch.

It will not be counted as a touch-back when a player offside and within the opposing team's 10-yard line touches the ball.

One of the most obnoxious rules of the past year was eliminated. When a player covers a punt made by one of his own side and accidentally touches it there will be no five-yard penalty imposed. It was also announced that the referee may give a 25-yard penalty to a team that reports late for the start of the game.

A board of arbitration consisting of E. K. Hall, '92, Dartmouth; Walter Camp, Yale; W. S. Langford, Trinity; and F. W. Poore, Harvard, was appointed by the rules committee.

It will be the duty of the board to interpret questions and publish its decisions annually in the form of a supplement. The result will be the establishment of a series of precedents to guide officials and others connected with the conduct of the game.

uate coaches to work on it and McGill is bound to have a good team.

Instil into that team a spirit of service (for they are serving the University) a spirit of sacrifice and fellowship to one another, a spirit of confidence in and loyalty to their teammates and to their coaches, a spirit of do or die, a spirit of responsibility to their fellow students and to themselves for their college work and we need never fear but that McGill will be a rival to be feared and respected by the other teams in the union.

There is one more thing I would urge on the members of the team and that is that they take full advantage of the opportunities to be offered them for maintaining their studies and in keeping abreast of their classmates in their college work. Too often has the lack of energy at their studies by a couple of men cast undeserved reproach on the football team as a whole. It should be the duty of their coaches and their team mates to see that any laggards are shown that they must consider others, even if they do not care for their own scholastic standing.

MACDONALD LOST TO MCGILL REDS.

Visitors Are Defeated by Score of 23-11

In a mediocre exhibition of baseball played last night at the Baron Byng School, the McGill Reds took the measure of the Macdonald College nine by the score of 23-11. The winners were on top at all stages, and the issue was hardly ever in doubt.

McGill went to bat first, and in the opening inning it appeared as if the game would be nothing short of a runaway. The entire team batted twice, and when the smoke had cleared away, they had amassed a total of 11 runs. The best that the visitors could accomplish by way of retaliation was a solitary run. However, Vanterpool, the Macdonald hurler, soon accustomed himself to the strange floor, and thereafter prevented a repetition of so heavy a barrage of hits, blanketing the winners in the second, third and last inning, although he was hit freely in the other sessions.

McCullough, for McGill, pitched masterful ball throughout, and the opposing batters found it no easy task to connect with his fast ball. In the last inning, with victory practically assured, he gave way to Reg. Henry, who retired the visitors in order.

Perhaps the most sensational feature of the game was a double play, McCullough to Campbell, executed in the second inning. McCullough caught Dimmock's terrific drive, and wheeling, doubled Brightman at second, thereby extricating himself from a tight situation, as the osers had already scored two runs and had two men on bases with nobody out.

Gauthier turned in a sparkling performance at short, his fielding leaving nothing to be desired, and his hitting sing almost on a par. He made the only home run of the game in the first inning, scoring McCullough, Lynch and Moran ahead of him.

Little was the heavy hitter for the losers, getting two doubles a single, and drawing a pass in four trips to the plate.

The teams were as follows:—
McGill Reds. Macdonald.
Catcher. Dimmock.
Pitcher. Vanterpool.
First Base. Atwell.
Second Base. Clayton.
Right Short Stop. Smith.
Left Short Stop. McKibbin.
Third Base. Armstrong.

MACCABAEAN CIRCLE TO HOLD DINNER

Prominent Speaker Will Be Guest of Honour

The annual dinner of the Macabaeian Circle will be held in the Venetian Gardens on April 9th. This is the Circle's closing affair, and it should be an unqualified success. The guest of the evening will be a prominent speaker sent down for the occasion by the Inter-College Menorah Society.

The Macabaeian Circle has proven itself to be a potent force amongst the Jewish students at McGill. It is a purely cultural society. Its meetings have been addressed by prominent speakers among whom were some of the college professors, their themes being usually those dealing with ancient Jewish history and literature, and their influence upon the world to-day. The Circle has also had their own members debating amongst themselves, the purpose being to bring out their latent oratorical skill. Recently the Circle succeeded in defeating Toronto in an Intercollegiate Debate.

The tickets for the dinner can be had from any one of the Executive members.

THE MOTHER TONGUE.

(Ohio State Lantern.)

A thorough knowledge of chemistry or engineering does not constitute an education. Neither is the person who thoroughly masters philosophy, history, or literature, necessarily educated. The educated person, while knowing well the profession which is intended to gain him a livelihood, also has a general education in other subjects, and, above all, an easy familiarity with his mother tongue.

No person being of an English speaking nation can call himself educated until he does know the English language, and, knowing it, puts it in daily use. Four years in college would be ill-spent, indeed, if they taught nothing in the way of self-expression.

By their conversation, and nothing more, students of the Ohio State university are judged by thousands of people whom they meet for short talks. By their conversation they demonstrate the influence the university has upon them. If their use of words be correct, they will leave a favorable impression, not only of themselves, but of their school.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE GYMNASIUM CLUB

The regular spring business meeting of the Gym. Club will be held this afternoon in the Music Room of the Union at 5 o'clock.

The main items of business will be the election of officers for the coming year, and drawing up of tentative plans for the Intercollegiate Competition which will be held in Montreal next March.

At the first of the year a large number of men turned out who later on failed to attend the practices. It is hoped that these men will come to the meeting and give suggestions to the new executive for increasing interest in the practices.

LAUREATE OF INTERVIEWED

William, feeling as bold as a lion, Tull of health and cheer, Hastily arose, and calmly said, "I'll ascertain what's the trouble, dear."

The Janitor rushed up the stairs, And walked across the hall Ever gazing upward to see If the building would fall.

On entering the Faculty Room, Behold, within its classic walls, Instead of peace and dignity, Chaos was over all.

Plaster, falling from the ceiling Was everywhere around. And on the Speaker's Chair A very large piece was found.

As the Janitor looked around, On the desolation and despair, He thought what might have happened Had the faculty been there.

If cracks in the walls and ceiling Be the writing on the wall, This last alarming incident Is just an S.O.S. call.

H., Arts (year unknown).

It is thus seen that a mute, inglorious Milton, who has been working in the obscurity of the dim recesses of the Arts Building, has found a larger audience, and the less fortunate members of other faculties are now for the first time given an opportunity of approaching the works of a poet which have hitherto been the esoteric knowledge of the discerning few.

The influence of the ancient Hebrew poets rather than that of the Elizabethan bards seems most noticeable in the work published to-day, and the reference to the writing on the wall and to the fall of Babylon is a grave warning to those who would close their eyes to the significance of such incidents as are described in Harry's ballad. May we not regard Harry as a new Daniel come to judgment, reading aright the writing on the wall, and predicting the fall, not of Babylon, but of the Arts Building?

Harry's knowledge of his favourite author, Shakespeare, is something of which a Ph.D. might well be proud. There is hardly a passage from any of the plays which, if you begin, he can not continue for as long as you like. And the aptness with which he uses his knowledge in ordinary conversation is well illustrated in the example given at the beginning of this article. Such ability taken a real love for the best in literature, and for a man who left school when he was ten years old is no mean achievement.

The larger the family the more expensive the carfare.—Aesop's Film Fables.

MCGILL MEN WON GYMNASIUM TITLE

Defeated 'Varsity Team at Hart House

McGill won her sixth Intercollegiate Championship on Saturday when the gym team succeeded in obtaining a lead of 67 points in the competition with 'Varsity.

This is the largest lead that has ever been secured in any of the gymnastic meets, but does not indicate a walk-away for the local team. 'Varsity won out by small margins on two of the four events, and held their own in the third. It was only in the movements on the high horizontal bar that McGill was able to outclass their opponents.

The competition started Saturday afternoon when 'Varsity secured 156 points to 151 made by McGill in work on the horse. The latter performed more spectacular movements, while the 'Varsity team showed superior style to their more conservative work. Work on the mats followed, in which McGill obtained 167 points to 'Varsity's 159. In this division, the Toronto team concentrated on perfect execution of simple work; McGill attempted very difficult feats and failed to get many of them. The afternoon's work ended with McGill but three points in the lead.

In the evening Hart House gymnasium was crowded to watch the more interesting work on the parallel and high horizontal bars. The spectators applauded vigorously after each man had had his turn on the high bar. McGill showed marked superiority on this piece of apparatus, doing very advanced work without a slip. They scored 178 points, while 'Varsity made 113.

Following this, each team put its best into the work on the parallel bars. These were much different from those used in Montreal, and gave 'Varsity the advantage. They showed more finish in the set movements, although less proficiency in the voluntary exercises, and obtained 183.6 points to McGill's 183.

The competition ended with McGill in possession of a lead of 67 points—679 to 612. This was in marked contrast to the results of last year, when the lead was only four points.

The work of the individual competitors cannot be given until the copies of the judges' sheets arrive from Toronto. The teams were as follows: 'Varsity—Mix (capt.), Kinn, Chorolsky, Kramer, Boyle.

McGill—Delahay (capt.), Rolleston, Consiglio, McLetellie, McKyes.

S.R.O. SIGN WILL BE SEEN THURSDAY

Great Activity for Theatre Night

This Thursday night will see McGill's first combined attempt at theatricals. The faculties are putting on their skits and acts, and are spending much time rehearsing them. They have spent many evenings in informal rehearsals, and the final touches will be put to them at the "dress" rehearsal which will take place on Thursday afternoon.

The Orchestra is also hard at work practicing. They will introduce to the audience the Alma Mater March, especially prepared by Mr. Harold Eustace Key, for the occasion.

The tickets for the show have been practically all sold out, and those remaining are expected to go fast. According to present indications, the sign S.R.O. will be hung up long before the opening of the show.

Below is the programme in the order in which the acts will appear:

FINAL GATHERING OF WESTERN CLUB

Smoker With Excellent Pro- gramme Tomorrow Night

The final opportunity for all Westerners to come together is offered to-morrow night, when a Smoker will be held in the Union. The main business is really the election of officers for the coming year, the men elected will take over their duties immediately on the opening of college in the fall.

An interesting programme has been arranged for the night. A five-piece orchestra will be in attendance all evening. Two well known boys will stage a boxing bout, while the executive have prepared a farcical skit to round out the evening. Some local talent from the down-town shows have also been approached to add variety to a programme already replete with interest.

Invitations have been issued to many of the professors and staff, and Dean Laing, Dean Adams, Professors Bazin, Sullivan and MacMillan have announced their intention to be present. Dr. Bazin will say a few words on his trip through Canada this summer, and some of the others may address the meeting.

The Westerners' Club of Montreal will be guests of the McGill Club for the evening.

songs of the sea such as the resonant "Sea Fever" and the colourful tale of Commerce as told in "Cargoes" to the tune of the whistling wind. Then there were songs full of the spirit of old England, "We Be Soldiers Three" and the catchy melody of "Our Noble Duke of York." The exhilarating freshness of the old favourite "Rolling Down to Rio" closed the entertaining programme and drew much applause. Finally, but by no means least, were the magnificent violin solos of Miss Izard and the appealing numbers by Miss James. Taken as a whole it was a programme universal in its compelling charm and entertaining appeal and one which brought out the technical attainments of the ambitious McGill University Glee Club.

The audience, which filled about three-quarters of the Convocation Hall, was composed mainly of members of the faculties, their friends and music lovers from the city. Sprinkled throughout the hall could be seen a few students but they were few and very far between. The programme was one which had an especial appeal to the student body but which was thoroughly appreciated by the audience present.

To open the programme the club could scarcely have found a better selection than "Drake's Drum" with its rhythmic swing which was sung with excellent intonation. This song won the interest of the audience which was ment and they sung them with the same melodious intonation that mark-

ZIONISM IS TOPIC AT COSMOS CLUB

Last Meeting of Club Tomor- row Night

The last meeting of the Cosmopolitan Club before its banquet, which will take place early in April, will be held to-morrow night at 8.30, in the Hall.

The speaker for the evening is Bernard Cohen, Arts '24. His address will be on "Jewish history from the earliest times to the present day, and Zionism." The subject should prove of great interest both to students of theology, history and politics, as the speaker knows his subject thoroughly, and this is one of the much discussed questions of the day.

It is urgent that all members try to attend this meeting, as arrangements are to be made for the big annual dinner of the Club, which will be held early next month and which will wind up the season's activities.

All students interested are cordially invited to attend.

AT THE CAPITOL

Although the trend of the story follows that sameness which characterizes all automobile racing stories of the screen, the feature presentation at the Capitol this week is exactly what is desired of a present day movie—namely, it is entertaining.

In "Racing Hearts" Agnes Ayres is seen to great advantage, and throughout the entire picture proves above all doubt that she is an accomplished driver. Richard Dix takes the part opposite to her exceedingly well, and should be seen quite often in the future in similar roles, while Theodore Roberts is again on hand as the wrathful father who is feared by all except his daughter.

The story, as do all similar stories, hinges around the great rivalry between two great automobile manufacturing concerns. The son and daughter of the presidents of the respective companies are brought together by the usual chance of circumstances. Daughter slips it over on the old man while the latter is away in Europe, and enters a car in the great Vanderbilt Road Race against his wishes. Her driver shows considerable tenacity before the start of the race, which necessitates her donning the overalls and goggles to pilot her car over the course. After a quite thrilling race, which is featured by a few real good spills, and in which the winner is—but that is telling too much. At any rate both the daughter and son win what they desire, and the speed shown by the racing cars is nothing compared to their speed in falling in love with each other.

Even the mere man finds delight in viewing some of Dame Fashion's latest creations in the fashion parade staged by a local departmental store. Mennequins from the age of four up participate and the gowns are advertised in a quite novel manner.

The rendition of Liszt's 2nd Hungarian Rhapsody by the Symphony Orchestra under the direction of J. J. Shea, is a musical treat and rounds out a well balanced bill.

ed the ever-popular "Over the Sea to Skye", which was given as an encore. "Music, When Soft Voice Die" was rendered with a pleasing dignity which proved very popular. Even the McGill Yell had a place on the programme. Sung to the setting composed by Mr. Harold Eustace Key, it richly harmonized and once more proved to be a sympathetic arrangement of a good old cheer. The final selection, "Rolling Down to Rio", had the real old-time flavour about it and rendered, as it was with every word vivified with due accent, pause, and inflection, conclusively proved that music need not be ragged to be popular in its appeal.

Miss Mary Izard repeated her former triumphs and in Handel's "Sonata in A" displayed an exceptional understanding of the more subtle shades of this exquisite melody while in Kreisler's "Caprice Viennois" and "Tambrin Chinois" she played with much feeling, bringing out the eloquence never allowed to lag.

Miss James' first number, "Like to a Damask Rose", was outstanding for its delicate shading. The purity of the singer's voice and her engaging personality made her offerings delightful in their appealing charm. Her other songs, which included "Far Off I Hear a Lover's Flute" and "What's in the Air Today?" were characterized by clear enunciation and an exulting animation which enchanted her listeners.

"Sea Fever", with its rich deep tone, and "As It Fell Upon a Day", with its soft modulating melody, were examples of fine harmony. In these numbers the Glee Club was in its element of these haunting melodies. For an encore she gave "Londerry Air", a delicious little fragment with a faint touch of pathetic sadness.

Altogether it was a concert, the purpose of which was primarily to entertain, and which succeeded admirably. Although at times the Club seemed in need of a few more tenors, in the majority of the songs this deficiency could not be noticed.

Among those present were noticed Miss Hurlbutt, Bishop Farthing, Dr. Perrin, Dr. Cyrus MacMillan, Col. R. R. Thompson, Professors Sandwell, Reilly, Waugh and Traquair.

AT THE IMPERIAL

With dance acts predominating, but with plenty of other material to break the monotony, the Imperial once again succeeded in pleasing its audience. The bill, while not of exceptional merit, is far from being below the average.

Noel Lester opens the programme with some sleight of hand that is really good. The object of his offering is not to mystify, but rather to bring to light some of the "tricks of the trade." He succeeds, amidst the house's spontaneous laughter.

Dave Roth, besides imitating several well known pianists quite well, proves that he is a dancer of no little ability. The programme describes him as "The most Versatile Comic and Sensational Jummy Dancer." Whether he is wholly deserving of this title is somewhat doubtful, but at any rate, he is amusing.

"Times and Steps," is, as the title could suggest a melange of music and matter. The music is supplied by an orchestra of four women, who do fairly well. Isabelle supplies the dancing, which is of the usual "vaudeville" standard.

Arthur Hartley and Helen Patterson are provided with a thin vehicle to get their questionably entertaining chatter to the audience.

Smythe and James, who tell a few jokes and sing a few songs, and "opera and jazz," a medley of song and dialogue, bring the vaudeville programme to a close.

Irene Castle stars in "French Heels," the story of a pleasure loving girl who has married a lumber camp owner's son, and is forced to live a dull life in the forest, makes an interesting story, though it abounds with incidents bordering on the impossible.—T. H. H.

CORRESPONDENCE

'Tis true that we now have a Graduates' Employment Bureau, nor do I wish to criticise its work. But what we need is something more aggressive, something more active. To help us both during the college term and during vacations. What is necessary is an enlarged University Placement Bureau. I have no doubt that such an organization would be of great benefit not only to students, but also to the University, and would prove more beneficial to the poor student than many other projects planned as the book store.

Cannot something be done towards this end? I suppose little can be done this year, but can we not hope for next year?

I thank you, Sir, most sincerely, for allowing me the use of your columns for such an unimportant matter. I am,

Yours truly
UNUS E PLURIBUS.

The Editor,

McGill Daily

Dear Sir—Will you allow me the favor of your column to express my approval of the convictions of Vertex concerning ye ancient ceremony of crowning King Cook. I am glad to see a true liberty loving man bravely burst forth in print and upbraid the "prurient uplifters" as well as to give the "lewd suggestions" of the vaudeville shows and the "salacious problems" of the picture drama their proper due.

It is folly in this day of education to decry as vulgar what is merely natural and still give those facts that strike deep in life an honorable place in the history of our literature. Let us be frank and honest in recognizing the truth and beauty in the ways of nature.

There is only one suggestion to be made to the Med. '28 concerning their presentation next year. Since the former grotesque and tedious recital of physiological data has been evolved into a highly spiced programme of humor and real talent by the hand picked class of Med. '27, let us hope that Med. '28 will extend the improvement by inviting all medical students regardless the accidental presence of the "x" chromosome.

Surely those co-eds appreciate humour and real talent, and why should their enjoyment be limited to that which has an honorable place in the history of our literature? If in the liberty loving Province of Quebec the Theologs. are admitted, and by their presence approve of the new standard of humour, surely the med. co-ed at least should be invited.

Yours for liberty, fraternity and equality,

BASE.

The Editor, McGill Daily.

Dear Sir—I wish to express my appreciation of the spirit of the letter appearing in today's Daily, signed "Vertex".

He and the "many others" for whom he spoke will be glad to learn that two Science students plan to publish a verbatim report of the famous Medical ceremony. This, we may be assured, will be as colorful as the original; for one of these students is expert in shorthand, the other is not a bad cartoonist. They were both present at the coronation ceremony and have a very complete report of the "proceedings". The little volume is to bear the University crest. It will be printed in red ink on white paper—the color of purity. It will contain copious illustrations. The price will be only 20c.

The value of such a truthful account of this latest product of Medical genius will, I am sure, be accorded universal recognition. The University authorities could, for a small sum, purchase the publication rights. It could then be included in the "literature" for the next McGill drive for more funds. It can readily be seen what an added prestige would be given to McGill in intellectual and cultural circles by this contribution from the undergrads of her largest faculty. Indeed, anyone will concede that a copy of this booklet should in future be mailed with every university calendar, to the discerning parents who have "healthy" young sons and daughters with college ambitions. This report might help also in finding about that desirable contact between graduates and undergraduates, if a copy were sent to each alumnus and alumna.

For these few reasons then, these aforementioned students have decided that they should proceed immediately to the publication of what Vertex calls "the riotous fun of healthy (minded?) young men, full of the joy of living and honest in their frank recognition of the facts that strike deep in life and have their honorable place in the history of our literature."

The only trouble is that no publishing house in Montreal will publish it. Thanking you for the space in your (and in our) valuable paper,

Very truly yours,
SCIENCE STUDENT.

P.S.—Not one of the two.

The Editor, McGill Daily.

Dear Sir—I have followed with interest the accounts and the campus talk of the "Society for the Welfare of Male Students" and I also read the letter written by Hortense in yesterday's Daily.

I am sure that Hortense did not know the facts of the case when she wrote her letter. She states that "one of the leading lights in the new club has fallen from grace". This is hardly true, however. The members of the club pledge themselves never to marry "college" women. The young man in question was merely consolidating his position as a leader of the new society and has in no way infringed the rules of the club by his action—she is not a college woman. I hope that this will put Hortense's mind quite at rest and I would like to assure her that the direction of the club is in the best possible hands.

I would suggest, Mr. Editor, that the membership of this club be opened to the student body as a whole. There is no doubt that there are many of the undergraduates who are in most dire need of protection such as this society would afford them. "United we stand, divided we fall". Mr. Editor, I ask you, what chance has the cold, calculating attack of a senior co-ed? None at all—or even less than that; the deck is stacked against him before he even enters the game. In verification of this I would ask you to see the R.V.C. skit which I am told is based on fact. In the words of the twenty-two year old Socrates; he of the apologetic blue eyes; "We've just got to protect the young fellows coming in and give them their chance in life without being handicapped from the very start by the feminine idea." Indeed, these are words of wisdom and even considering the fact that they were uttered by a cold, unassailable woman-hater, I think that we would do well to follow along the course that they indicate and take steps to protect our freshmen.

Yours for the society,
SMACK.
